

To whom it may concern-

I receive several telemarketing calls per day. Some are hang-ups on my answering machine, some are pre-recorded and some are individuals. I have become horribly frustrated inside my own home with telemarketers calling non stop. Within the last few months I would estimate that calls to my home have at least doubled. I always request to be removed from calling lists, I never give out my home phone number (I use my work's) and I have "opted out" every list that I can. I want peace in my house and I want the FCC to know how frustrating telemarketers are when they deny the public peace in their own home.

Thnak you for your concern,

Kari.
